SAN JOSE Dec. 24.—This morning at 10 o'clock Chris Bittel, a former night watchman at George Hett's creamery, entered the home of James Thornton at 162 East street and with a preliminary curse opened fire with a large revolver on Thornton and his wife, formerly Mrs. Brookbanks, to whom he was married only a few days ago.

After shooting his revolver and fastly reloading continued to fire, it is one and then at the other

DESPERATE DUEL

Thornton managed to procure his own revolver and he emptied it at Bittel but without effect. He then hurried away but he was arrested shortly after by officers.

Of the eight shots fired by Bittel struck Thornton in the neck and three found lodgment in the victim's body—one in the neck and one in the shoulder and one in the leg. She probably will die but Thornton will recover.

JEALOUSY THE CAUSE

Bittel had been boarding with the former Mrs. Brookbanks up to the time she was married to Thornton and it is presumed that jealousy was the cause of his murderous attack upon the couple. He is now in the county jail.

ENGINEERS AND RAILROAD MANAGERS REACH AN AGREEMENT; THERE WILL BE NO STRIKE

CHICAGO Dec. 24.—There will be no strike of the locomotive engineers of the country. Filled with the good cheer of Christmas the railroad representatives and the delegation of engineers met today shortly after noon. Each side presented propositions which had been prepared overnight which represented concessions on each side. There was still a difference of opinion. From these propositions United States Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill drafted a basis of settlement which was

Without Success

LONDON Dec. 24.—The search for Cecil S. Grace, the amateur aviator who lost his way in a fog while attempting to return over the English channel to Dover Thursday was continued today without success.

The only development this afternoon was an unconfirmed rumor current at Amsterdam that a aeroplane had been picked up in the North Sea.

A fleet of torpedo boats sent out from Sheerness to scour the waters of the vicinity had not returned up to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Grace had flown from Dover to the well known Oakley Common where he lost his bearings and instead of continuing to Dover landed to the northeast and over the North Sea. Efforts to find him or land or water have continued since early Thursday evening.

CHICAGO Dec. 24.—The five year old son of Michael Otto of Richardson, N. D., froze to death as the result of his parents' negligence. He was the victim of the coroner's inquest investigating the case today.

On the eighth shot fired by Bittel struck Thornton in the neck and three found lodgment in the victim's body—one in the neck and one in the shoulder and one in the leg. She probably will die but Thornton will recover.

WASHINGTON Dec. 24.—A coal mine abandoned fifteen years ago has collapsed and carried down the foundry of Zenith Press and Standard West Christian tract this morning. A steel vice president of the company and twelve workmen severely injured but none will die.

There were two or three employees who were absent from the mine filling wells taken in machinery and twisted shifting. The steel vice president of the company and twelve workmen severely injured but none will die.

CHICAGO Dec. 24.—Four miners met death here today when a bucket in which they were descending shifted the shaft of the No. 1 pit of the Illinois Central Railroad overturning it 50 feet to the bottom. Their bodies were at German V.

CHICAGO Dec. 24.—Still strong in his belief that Mrs. William Whitemore tried to kill her daughter Leah Anne Goe and then committed suicide, City Marshal M. H. Goe never less than admitted today that the mystery surrounding the case may never be cleared up.

Mother and daughter were found on the floor of their home, the former dead and the girl in a dying condition. Physicians who were called declared that food had not passed the lips of either for four days and it was at first thought the two were victims of a suicide pact. Then came the statement of the daughter that they had partaken of pork gravy a day previous to their death and that there was poison in the food.

on the drivers, on which an additional differential of twenty-five cents a day, also on engines of the Mallet type, an additional differential of from 75 cents to $1.

On pushers, helpers, wreckers, work trains, snow plows and mixed trains, 40 cents a day.

This agreement gives the engineers on all the sixty-one railroads affected by the adjustment a total of some $3,899,000 annually, or approximately $102 for every man affected.

Adopted unanimously, ending the question of a strike.

The settlement provides for a general increase for the employees of 10½ per cent, which in normal service, amounts to about 40 cents a day.

The specific increases in the wages of the engineers in money are as follows:

On passenger service, forty cents a day.

On suburban service, forty cents a day.

Forty cents a day on through freight except on engines weighing 215,000 pounds affected.

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 24.—A burglar who gave himself out as Jim Kelly was shot in the head Saturday night this morning by W. A. Tipton, a son of the proprietor of a livery stable and general merchandise store here. He was trying to get into the safe when Tipton fired a charge of shotgun shells from a double-barreled shotgun. He died within an hour.

The wounded man refused sufficiently to tell his name. Tipton did not know he came from the appearance of a shabby young man. He was 32 years of age and comported himself well.

A person after awakening found the burglar seated on the floor, the door open into the room and called to him to halt. He fell to the floor and died.

A doctor found the burglar on Tipton's right side, calling his name and muttering something unintelligible. Kelly died. He made no statement and there was nothing in his pockets that could lead to the identity of his murderer.

He was working in his office when he was disturbed by the noise of the gun.

CHICAGO Dec. 24.—The stock exchange in which forty-four lives were lost, including that of Chief Marshal John H. Bittel, is still unsupervised today. Dozens of streams of water will be pouring on the smoldering mass probably for several days.

Mrs. Whitemore Tried to Kill Daughter.

CHICAGO Dec. 24.—There have been no developments today in the Whitemore poisoning case. The analysis of the dead woman's stomach has not yet been completed and a fair amount of mystery still surrounds the tragedy. The death is growing, however, that the death of Mrs. Whitemore and the illness of her daughter Leah Anne Goe, was caused by poisonous food. Mrs. Goe is recovering rapidly though she remains silent and has made no satisfactory explanation of the manner in which the poisoning occurred.

With Bullet in Head He Calmly

Awful Mess."

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—After firing a bullet into his head, John Rice propped himself on his elbow on the floor and, calling for the telephone receiver, calmly resumed a conversation he had been holding with a young woman at the other end of the line. "You should see me now, Ray," he said. "I'm an awful mess."

This episode took place in the Chatham Club early today. Rice was sitting with several friends when suddenly he jumped up and went to the telephone.

"Is that you, Ray?" he inquired, when the ring was answered and then after he had the reply he said:

"I'm going to do it."

With that he pulled a revolver from his pocket and pointing it at his own head fired. Rice dropped to the floor and resumed his telephone conversation. It was said at the hospital that he had an even chance for life. He would not say why he tried to kill himself.

A Democratic Estimate of Tawney.

Who remembers the name of the man who defeated James A. Tawney? Who cares anything about him or expects anything from him? He may become as useful a legislator as Mr. Tawney proved himself to be and may even become as popular and respected among his colleagues as Mr. Tawney is, but the probabilities are all the other way. Who remembers the man who defeated William McKinley in 1890? The man who defeated Joseph G. Cannon the only time he failed of election is forgotten. Nobody knows or cares anything about the man who defeated William L. Wilson.

All these men were temporary victims of popular passion and prejudice. Despite their great ability and honorable service an angry and unthinking electorate turned them adrift with contumely and set up small, inferior and untried men in their stead. The substitutes were sore disappointments. They could not bend the bow of Ulysses and they made a sorry showing in contrast to the men they succeeded. They speedily dropped into the obscurity from which they were dragged, and the men they supplanted for a moment resumed the station which their talents and achievements gave them the right to occupy.

Mr. Tawney began at the blacksmith's forge. He studied law at night, educated himself and became a man of influence. For eighteen years he has sat in Congress, and as chairman of the Appropriations Committee has won the respect of every man acquainted with the financial affairs of the government. Some of the warmest testimonials to his zeal, capacity, impartiality and patriotism have been given by leading Democrats in Congress who are personally cognizant of his untiring industry and his sincere devotion to the public welfare. For instance, Congressman Burleson of Texas, an able and influential Democrat and a strong partisan, endorsed Mr. Tawney for Governor of the Panama canal zone in the warmest terms, taking occasion to say that Mr. Tawney's defeat for Congress was a national calamity.

"It was a calamity when Mr. Tawney was defeated for renomination," said Mr. Burleson. "It was not so much a calamity to his district, or to his State, as to the whole country at large. I venture to say that, although Mr. Tawney has always been a partisan and a regular, the general appreciation of his services is such among members of the house that, could his re-election be brought about by that body, he would be returned by unanimous consent."

"I think the greatest tribute that can be paid to Mr. Tawney arises from the fact that, after eighteen years of service in the house, living frugally, occupying high position, wielding great influence, and all for a portion of that time, heading a committee which passes on expenditures of $500,000,000 a year, Mr. Tawney leaves the House of Representatives a poor man. No more honorable or complete tribute than that can be paid to a man in public life."

How is that, coming from a revenue tariff Democrat? Is it likely that Mr. Tawney's successor (his name is Anderson, we believe), will ever receive or merit such a tribute from a political antagonist? By his own unaided efforts Mr. Tawney rose from the position of a common laborer to be one of the foremost men in Congress, a statesman and a leader of men. A confused and inflamed public opinion in his district turned against him with unreasoning anger and deprived the nation of the services of an able and experienced legislator. But in a short time Mr. Tawney's constituents will realize their mistake, will get over their silly passion and regret that they dismissed so useful a representative.

A famous statesman, defeated at the polls by an obscure and mediocre man, was taunted with having been supplanted by "a nobody."

"Not so," he replied; "the man who has the honor of winning from me has thereby achieved distinction." That is probably the only distinction Tawney's successor can ever claim. He happened to defeat a really famous man.

The honesty of American elections and the accuracy of the returns made by election boards have been demonstrated in a signal way recently. In many of the States where results were close contests were instituted and recounts had. Invariably the recounts showed no substantial change and no evidence of false counting or tampering with the ballots. With hardly an exception the original returns were vindicated. The changes were so few and slight as to occasion surprise, and were mostly due to honest mistakes or errors of judgment. When one stops to consider the circumstances under which the polling and counting are done—the partisan feelings that prevails and the hurry of making up returns by inexperienced men—the general accuracy and honesty of election returns is a subject for congratulation.

"We know full well that women have a superstitious dread of having a two dollar bill in their purses," says the Santa Cruz Sentinel. Is that the reason why so many of them carry their money in their stockings?

New York has the largest Jewish population of any city in the world. It has probably a larger resident Jewish population than Jerusalem had in the palmiest days of the kingdom of Israel. According to the Univers Israelite, it has 1,062,000 Jewish inhabitants. The same authority gives the whole number of all the Jews as 11,817,783, of whom 5,110,548 are credited to Russia and 1,224,899 to Austria. In all Europe there are 3,942,266. Warsaw contains more Jews than any other European city—254,712. London has 144,300; Paris, 70,000; Berlin, 98,893 and Vienna 146,926.

We learn that the Hon. Everis Ambrosius Hayes, the red-bearded prophet of Saints' Rest, contemplates offering himself to the Legislature as a candidate for United States Senator. He would be an effulgent and beauteous figure in the Senate. Should he be elected that body would be leavened with more holiness and hypocrisy than it ever possessed at any one time before. By all means the Hon. Everis Ambrosius should be elected. This is an age of political humbug.

As we will have two Christmas days this year, the cold turkey will come in handy the second day. Cold turkey isn't bad, either, but the hash and the soup at the finish are a trifle discouraging.

It is to be hoped that no one in Oakland will go to bed hungry tomorrow night. That hope can best be realized by lending a helping hand wherever one is needed. And don't stay the hand as soon as Christmas is over. Those helped to their feet during the year do not need help at Christmas and often are able to give some less fortunate one a Christmas dinner. A full stomach on Christmas does not ease the pangs of hunger for the other 364 days in the year.

The holiday season this year has been saddened by more than the usual number of shocking calamities involving loss of life and painful injuries. Within a week there have been at least half a dozen horrible accidents in which many lives have been lost. Each Christmas there are fires, train wrecks or something of the kind to bring grief and desolation to homes that were being swept and

SHAKESPEARE'S DEATH MASK

Good Professor Wallace, whose researches show us "Shakespeare as a comouter," combed England for his data, but neglected Germany. This was a mistake, as it gave Dr. Wissleens, not Professor Wallace, the glory of discovering "Shakespeare's death mask" and starting the most magnificent little tempest since the affair of the wax bust of Flora, which the Kaiser declared a genuine antiquity despite its modern origin. "Shakespeare's death mask" is warmly accounted for in Wissleens' monograph. He found the precious object in Darmstadt, and while no documentary evidence is forthcoming, and while the mask is without a label, no one can deny that the plaster bears the date "1616"—the very year in which the Bard of Avon departed this life. Wissleens tells us that the mask was brought over from England by Count von Kasselstadt, a rich Mayence collector. At his death his collections were sold, and scattered far and wide. The mask found its way to an old curio shop, where it languished for years. An individual named Becker—half artist, half adventurer—purchased it. Becker died in Australia, and his brother, Ernest, a secretary in the employ of Albert the English prince consort, fell heir to the mask. When Prince Albert died in 1861, Ernest Becker settled down in Darmstadt. He bequeathed the mask to his family, and that is how Dr. Wissleens got possession of it.

It has had its troubles. The nose is not what it once was, a coat of oil paint has by no means improved the surface and the poor mask has been knocked about unmercifully, getting many a kick in its travels. Nevertheless, it is still a fair likeness of its former self. It represents a man of 50 or thereabouts, with a Shakespearean beard and slightly upturned mustaches, a strong forehead, an aquiline nose and finely molded lips. The profile is handsome, recalling certain noble heads by Leonardo da Vinci.

Now, Dr. Wissleens is not a fellow to go off half-cooked if he can prevent it. He hastened to Stratford, where he studied the bust of Shakespeare that is supposed to be an exact portrait. To close was the resemblance between the mask and the bust that he was convinced that the latter had been copied from the former.

Professor Thoma agrees with him. In the preface which he has written for Wissleens' monograph he cries: "I hold Shakespeare's death mask in my hands!" And yet there are wicked skeptics who say that both Thoma and Wissleens have been gullied, as is far from impossible. A bit of plaster bears an interesting date; it looks like a certain marble portrait of Shakespeare; but who shall say that the marble portrait is a true likeness? A book recently published in Boston reproduces an old wood cut portrait of the Stratford poet that tends to validate the bust. Dangerous ground this though. The Kaiser can be trusted to set the question with the usual vigor and finality.—Boston Transcript.

Political Comment

President Taft appears to understand that he is the President of the whole country, that the population is nearly evenly divided between the two great political parties, and that the Supreme Court, our final arbiter in national disputes, ought to be a non-partisan body. This is much to the credit of William H. Taft.—Philadelphia record.

Mr. Ross probably reasons correctly that his presence in the House during the next few weeks would not be worth a farce in the country, but even so, he should not take pay for his absence.—Albany Journal.

The selection of the Chief Justice recognizes the fact that the Supreme Court of the United States is an institution apart from political partisanship.—Washington Star.

BOULEVARDS AS ASSET

The Outlook presents another striking instance of the commercial value of parks and boulevards. It has appeared in the system established in Kansas City, Mo., within the past fifteen years.

In a recent report, George E. Kessler, landscape architect for the board of park commissioners, asserts that, while the system of parks and boulevards has cost $10,000,000, "the property fronting on these boulevards has been advanced by them more than that amount."

The experience of Kansas City in some respects affords a parallel to that of Seattle. When the system was projected there a little less than twenty years ago, the opposition from property owners was intense.

It has been found that wherever the system, which now includes forty-five miles of boulevards and drives and 2100 acres of parks, has been established, the character of the neighborhood has improved. Slums have disappeared and better houses have been built.

In Kansas City, frontage on boulevards easily doubles the market price of lots on streets two or three blocks distant. As a result, Kansas City today is acquiring many miles of boulevards which cost nothing for the original dedication and construction. To obtain the first boulevard it was necessary to condemn strips of ground and to construct roadways, parking and walks, assessing the cost against the property.

Now, as additions are made to the city, many property owners desire to plat the ground to include boulevards, to dedicate and build such boulevards at their own expense, and deliver them finished to the city. This work is done under the supervision of the park commission. In this way several miles of boulevard have been added to the system.

The change in attitude toward the park and boulevard system has been due in part to the elevation of public taste, which now demands beauty in city building. But an exceedingly important factor has been the discovery that beauty is an asset that can be realized on commercially.—Seattle Times.

AFRICA AND THE NEGRO

Experience will continue to be the best teacher, perhaps; but it will always be true that one generation of men will be able to derive but little benefit from the experiences of a previous generation.

From Los Angeles comes word of a "back to Africa" movement among the negroes of that city and its neighborhood.

Money has been pledged, and a large, enthusiastic meeting has agreed upon the benefits which will accrue to the members of their race in a colony to be established in the negro's mother country.

It has been only a matter of some twenty years that just such a movement was carried to its completion. Many negroes undertook a colonization scheme, and the result was wholly disastrous. The managers of the movement manifested a lack of ability in management, and the individuals who formed the colony were found to be lacking in the ability to adapt themselves to strange and not very favorable conditions.

The ancient story of the confusion of tongues was not meant, perhaps, to signify that the races of earth are better off when they are divided from each other. America, the great melting pot, has taught the lesson that excellent results are obtained when men of many minds occupy a common country and work toward the completion of common institutions.

For better or worse, the negroes of America have their real home in this land, and can scarcely hope to establish another.

There is not much of a race problem in the United States; and such as there is, it will be best solved by the discovery that each man has his work to do, and that he will be useful and respected just in proportion as he does it with all his might.

The American negro has yet much to gain; but he will gain it slowly and by a process of evolution. And in all probability he will gain it in America, by fitting the soil, for which he is already equipped, and by mastering new crafts and arts.—St. Louis Times.

A man is sure to have enemies—unless he marries a woman who has no relatives.

Amid the screaming of whistles, the waving of flags and cloaks from hundreds of throats, the barkentines Charles F. Crocker was launched from Alameda Point this morning by Captain Charles White. It was christened by Miss Agnes Simpson, daughter of the Dutch consul.

Captain John Stimpson, the barkentine is the largest sailing vessel ever built in California. It has four masts, one square rigged and three with fore and aft sails, carrying a sail area of 5000 square yards. She is of 500 tons burden and has a lumber carrying capacity of 1,100,000 feet.

Last evening the executive committee of the West Oakland Improvement Association assembled at the home of Father J. P. McNiel, 1011 Polk street, to discuss the situation and take some definite steps in regard to the proposed park to take the place of the unsightly marsh at West Oakland. A majority of the committee was present, among them being A. D. Wilder, J. P. Gandy, John P. Fish, S. B. McKee, J. C. Cartwright, H. M. Collins, A. A. Williamson, Albert Miller, William Gross, Walter F. Price, W. G. Hawke, R. G. Cudler, William Walsh, A. B. Jerome, S. J. Harvey, H. Todd, D. M. Anthony, John Hennenger and Martin Ryan.

Jim Corbett, boxing instructor at the Olympic Club, has presented his resignation, to take effect January 1, 1911.

It is probable that D. C. Van Court of this city, who has been acting as Corbett's assistant, will be appointed to fill the vacancy.

Rose Coughlin, Charley Today, Cimarron and a number of other players departed last evening for Los Angeles, where they will play games with the Los Angeles and San Diego clubs.

Captain Leode of the ferry steamer

Capitan has decorated his boat very prettily with evergreens and red berries, it being the only decorated boat on the bay.

The bay City, of which he was in command last Christmas, was also the only decorated steamer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller have issued invitations to their friends for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Amy Louisa, to Edward Lincoln Hitchcock on Thursday, January 1, at noon, at the Market Street Congregational Church.

THE MEDDLER

MISS ELSA HINZ, fiancee of Lieutenant Clarence Butler, U. S. A.

MAT Christmas bells ring in for you, The happiest time you ever knew." That is the universal wish of the holiday time. And we have all learned that even if we cannot send each other expensive gifts, we can send abroad in the land good wishes to those we love.

Christmas cards bring us friendly greetings, and with the holiday spirit everywhere in the air, life is well worth while.

And we have learned not to spend holidays alone. There is a great sense of comradeship in the air; we like to spend holiday times with each other, to take our pleasures together.

The largest holiday gathering was that of the Ebell club, on last Tuesday, when the thirty-fourth birthday of the club was celebrated with due eclat.

It perhaps is not generally known that the oldest woman's club in the United States is the Soros Club of New York city, and the second oldest is the Ebell Club of Oakland, California. The Ebell club has ably pioneered the western way and its birthdays are brave milestones marking the path of women's progress.

Never has Ebell club scored so signal a success as in the Christmassy jinks which marked the thirty-fourth birthday. "The Jinks" was planned along delightfully original lines, and was so amusing that gales of laughter started the echoes in the studious clubhouse.

The luncheon table was beautiful decorated, carrying a bright bold color scheme, and in the center was the famous big birthday cake, carrying its thirty-four candles. The luncheon was served in old English style, and when the guests were seated, thirty mummers appeared, members of the club, in masks and dominoes and they were followed by the cook, who carried a large platter containing the historic boar's head, plum pudding and punch bowl, which were placed on the table of the club president, Mrs. Charles J. Woodbury.

The mummers sang carols, and played and danced to the great amusement of the assembled guests. The innovation was introduced as a take off on the old English custom of the English beggars, who followed a whenever there was a feast in order to obtain the crumbs, and they would also follow the cook, dancing and singing carols. And often during the afternoon one heard the quaint airs of an old English feast, and the old-time carol rang out:

"God rest ye merry gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
For Christ, the Lord, our Savior,
Was born on Christmas day."

Mrs. Edward Y. Gibson (Hope Woodbury) gave a most humorous monologue, apropos of the modern club woman, and the telling points were elicited with frequent peals of laughter.

Mrs. Louisa Cockcroft read extracts from what was supposed to be her diary, describing her visits to the various study sections of the club in trying to decide which one she should join.

The hits at the various classes were much enjoyed by the members, who recognized the points made by the writer.

"Today," she said, "I visited the art section. I learned in these classes that R. Noyds and Gainsborough devoted their talents to creating our hats; Van Dyke designed our collars and our beards, and Landseer instructed us in the best breed of animals—he poultry show recently given in Oak and being in his honor.

The German section next claimed my attention. In order to make the Dutch come easily, even if the members do not sauerkraut sausage, pretzels or beer are passed around between the conjugations of the verb.

The class has learned to say, since last September: "Wie geht' und hoch Kaiser," with a good German accent.

I found the living issues section very busy. Most of Taft's message was written by Mrs. Bullock, and Mrs. Cockcroft and Mrs. Bunker are very busy overseeing the work on the Panama case.

"I grew quite weary with my round of visits but persevered until I took in the tourist section, or may be they took me in, for I learned where abroad was the best place to buy glass beads; imitation corals; colored postal cards, and cheap jewelry. Also how to do an art gallery in 15 minutes. They discussed the advantages and disadvantages of wearing tailored suits with silk waist, or dinner gowns at table.

Photo, but could not come to a conclusion, but all agreed that one should not play bridge in Venice, as it is damp that the cards stick together. Altogether I feel quite prepared for my trip to Europe after getting these helps.

"Well I wish I could belong to a section where there was no work."

Another hit was the take off on the reception committee, "who do not receive," which was given in pantomime by a group of the tallest, haughtiest dames in Ebell, while the timid guest passed by without a word of welcome or notice. Meantime a chorus chanted:

"These are the committees who receive

In Ebell's cultured club;

They take the palm, I do believe,

For handing out snub."

The high sopranos started out

With a loud and mighty spurt

And with battle cry advanced

But still no one was hurt.

The alto next them on the road

Engaged them in a "scrap."

The mezzos on the double quick

Came up to fill the gap.

Another point made was an imitation of the member who telephones for a luncheon seat, giving directions and suggestions galore about the matter and driving the luncheon committee to distraction with her notions.

IS ELEGANCE DECLINING?

Marcel Pivost, one of the most interesting writers of France, calmly asks the question "Is elegance declining?" And then he proceeds to answer his question in his own way

—In a manner of vast interest to smart sets in every city.

The fascinating French writer says:

"Elegance no longer implies qualties of mind and perfection of manner. It means today the art of dressing of outward ornament—not the inward accomplishments of other times. And since clothes were clothes woman has loved them. But in the modern woman, there is something high pitched and nervous in her desire to be richly clothed."

What is the reason of the extraordinary anxiety of the woman of today to deck herself in brilliant plumage?" The novelist gives the key to the enigma. To be well dressed is today practically the only sign of wealth, that is to say, of social distinction, since the two are so often synonymous. The sumptuous abodes of other days, the numerous servants and brilliant equipages and social functions, staggering in magnificence,

no longer exist, and clothes are therefore the label of superiority.

Of course that is a foreign point of view, and equally, of course, no really good American believes that it is perfectedly true. Nevertheless, there has never been a winter when gowns have been so characteristic—when one has seen so many really beautiful costumes worn by one's friends. And it is in the holiday time, when one is shopping that one sees them best.

And one would like sometimes to give a few hints to the woman who has many clothes, but who does not know how and when to wear them.

A well known writer from Paris sends a note of warning to American women:

"Sable, ermine and chinchilla are among the royal furs that no woman should wear in the morning on the street. It is quite true women do wear them, some of whom should know better, but nothing can alter the fact that it is in bad taste."

The furs that can be worn every day, not only with warmth but with propriety, are pony skin, and sealskin.

These may be bordered with skunk or black fox. The latter is also a fur that one can wear in the morning, and lynx is another.

Silver and white fox should be kept low plume to match the gown, completes a most artistic costume.

In reception gowns nothing seen on either side of the bay was more effective this year than the very beautiful costume which Mrs. F. M.

Smith is wearing this season. The color tone of the velvet gown is known as claret red, and the long velvet coat of the same color, is beautifully trimmed in fur.

Mrs. Willard Williamson is most effectively gowned in black velvet

this season, and other wonderful effective costumes are those worn by

Mr. Frank Proctor, Mrs. William

White, Mrs. Wickham Havens, Miss

Christie Tart, Mrs. Harold Black,

Mrs. Carl Schoenmacher and Mrs.

Oscar Luning.

CARDS ARE OUT FOR A LARGE TEA.

of the receiving party were entertained at dinner and at a dance.

Among the men who were dinner guests were:

Bernard Ford Walter Siebe
Eyre Pinckard George Siebe
Flatt Kent Edmund Lyman
Jack Neville John Callis
Helen Sherrwood Paul Jones
Dwight Moore Frederick von
Kenneth Moore Schroeder
John McMullan Frank Jones
Walter Hush Herbert Schmidt
Herbert Gould

Many house parties were entertained on our side of the bay for the McNear reception and dinner dance. Miss Bowles was the hostess at a week-end party, and so also was Miss Vera Haymeyer. The latter had as her guests Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stone, Miss Jennie Stone and Miss Harriet Stone.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES AT MANY HOMES.

Tomorrow merry Christmas festivities will go on in many homes. The Prathers are all to assemble at a Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Clay (Nannie Prather).

Among the guests will be Mr. Thomas Prather, the Sam Prathers, the Will Prathers, and the Hart East Millers.

The Rueds, Williams and McCall, make up a large family circle, while I am always entertained at some one of the delightful homes.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Williamson will entertain their relatives at dinner at their Piedmont home and among their guests will be Mrs. C. Rue, Conrad Rue, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Webster, Mrs. Louis Ghirardelli and the Misses Ghirardelli.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster will entertain the same circle of guests at dinner tomorrow, and at a Christmas tree in the evening will add to the enjoyment of the younger members of the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Olney Jr. (Mary McLean) will entertain the various families of the Olney and McLean families at their home in Berkeley this evening. There will be a large Christmas tree for the children and a merry Christmas eve for the older members of the family.

The two sons of the Olneys are named for their grandfathers, John Rev. J. K. McLean and Warren Olney, and Rev. and Mrs. J. K. McLean.

WILL SPEND HOLIDAYS IN WASHINGTON.

Mrs. John McMullan and Eliza McMullan are to spend the holidays in Washington, returning to New York early in January.

Miss Jessica Peixotto and her mother are in Paris for Christmas. Miss Ruth Casey is with friends in Florence, Italy.

The De Golas are delayed abroad,

As they were about to sail on the steamer from Naples the children developed scarlet fever, and they will be obliged to remain in Italy until they are out of danger.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Williams always entertain guests during the holidays in their Pacific Avenue home.

Mrs. H. L. Steele and Miss Muriel Steele will be among their guests, and they will remain in San Francisco until after the new year.

Mrs. Charles H. King has been hostess for many years at large

Christmas reunions, held in the large

East Oakland home of the Kings.

This year the family is to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tanne (Pearl King), in their new home at Claremont.

Another hostess of the yule tide will be Mrs. Gilbert Curtiss, who will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Lawson

Adam (Hazel Curtiss) and their young son.

Mrs. Curtiss is also planning to send out cards in the near future for a tea which she is to give in her East

Oakland home.

DR. AND MRS. PEASE TO ENTERTAIN FAMILY.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Loran Pease (Mabel Gage) are planning to entertain the various members of their family circle at a Christmas dinner which they are to give at their home on Summit Street.

The Gages make a very devoted family, and they know how to plan very happy reunions.

On New Year's day Mrs. George Gross is to be the hostess of the hour and the members of the Gage family will be her guests.

Among the guests at the Pease home on Christmas day will be Mr. Stephen Gage, Mr. and Mrs. George Gross, Stephen Gage Jr. and George Gage.

AN ENJOYABLE DANCE.

One of the most enjoyable dances that have been planned on this side of the bay was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proctor (Flora Macdermot), at the Country Club. It was all the more enjoyable that so many of the guests knew each other exceedingly well and the dance was a bright and merry affair.

The guests were chosen mainly from the younger married set of Oakland and dancing was the order of the evening's entertainment.

Mrs. Proctor, who made a most delightful hostess, was assisted in receiving her guests by her mother, Mrs. Charles Macdermot, and both of them made every effort to afford their young friends an exceedingly interesting evening.

Mrs. Proctor is very popular in social circles across the bay, and her guest list included many well known young people from San Francisco.

Among them were:

Miss Marguerite My and Mrs. Russel Soffridge
Miss Florence Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cluff
Miss Kathleen de Fred Greenwood
Miss Frances Paul Verdier
Miss Harriet Stone Duval Moore
Philip Paschel

SIGMUND BEEL HERE FROM EUROPE.

Mr. Sigmund Beel, the distinguished violinist, has arrived from Europe and is to spend the next two months with his mother and sister in San Francisco. Mr. Orrin Peck was the host on Tuesday evening at a delightful dinner given at the Bohemian Club in Mr. Beel's honor.

The dinner took place in the red room, and after dinner there was a delightful musical program.

Among the guests invited to meet Mr. Beel were Fred Greenwood, Rupert Blue, Allen Dunn, Putney Ford, Julius Rosenstiel, Harold Pracht and Earl Cummings.

MR. AND MRS. TRAINOR HERE FROM SOUTH.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trainor (Bessie Coghill), and their two boys, have come to Oakland for the holidays and are guests at the Coghill home. The baby boy is a very charming child who is making his first visit to his grandparents, and he is receiving a very hearty welcome from his mother's young friends.

Mrs. Trainor is a much loved young matron, whose visits home are always made very pleasant for her by many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Trainor are making their home in the southern part of the state, and Mrs. Coghill has recently been their guest, returning last week with her daughter and grandchildren.

RETURN FROM EUROPE.

Miss Annie Brown and the Misses Gill will return tomorrow — just in time for the Christmas holidays. They had a delightful stay in Cairo and later sailed from Naples in order to reach home a week ago.

There have been terrific storms in the Atlantic and their steamer was delayed a week. The Mullers, with whom Miss Brown has been traveling, are now in Munich and will not return until next year.

VEITCH'S HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Veitch, and their son, Lloyd, are also home for the holidays. They greatly enjoyed their trip abroad and spent delightful days in London, Paris and Berlin.

They have a large circle of friends in Oakland, who are giving them very happy holiday greetings:

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Everso and the Misses Marlan and Eliza Everso arrived from Europe last Sunday and are at their home on 11th Street. They went abroad early in the year and they have spent the summer and autumn in a most enjoyable tour of the continent.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Mrs. Warren Swayne, whose picture appears in tonight's Meddler, was formerly Miss Willow Butler and since her marriage of a season ago has made her home in Butte county. She was the motif for the delightful luncheon which Miss Edith White gave at her Alameda home this week. Mrs. Swayne will spend the holidays in the Encinal City.

Miss Elsa Hinz is the fiancee of Lieutenant Clarence Butler, U. S. A., and is a belle of Mill Valley, having a host of friends in the bay cities.

Miss Adeline Bogart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bogart, and is entertained on both sides of the bay. She has just returned from an extensive trip abroad.

Miss Esther Church is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lin F. Church, who have just moved into their beautiful new home on Parker and Etta streets in Berkeley.

Miss Church has not yet been formally presented to society, but is entertained extensively in San Francisco and the college town. She is especially gifted in dramatic work and has studied dramatic impersonation with Miss Ethel Coplin, who will present her during the winter a several large benefits at which she will read for charity. A stage for her especial use has been built in her Berkeley home, where she often entertains her friends.

A WEEK OF BALLS.

The present week across the bay has been a week of balls, as the next week and the one thereafter will be also. On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. William H. Thomas gave a lovely dance in the Fairmont ballroom to introduce to society their youngest daughter, Gertrude. The dance was fully as pretty and larger than the one given in the same room last week to introduce the younger daughter of the Josselyn family, Miss Marjorie.

The beautiful blue and white room of the Fairmont was charmingly decorated with French wreaths of pink chrysanthemums tied with huge bows of shiny pink tulle. These pink accessories brought out in delightful contrast the lovely turquoise hangings of the handsome room. In the red room at the end of the ballroom punch and lemonade were served, and here were comfortable lounging chairs, bridge tables and tables laden with the lovely flowers received by the debutante. Supper was served at midnight in the main dining-room and about two hundred and fifty guests sat down to a delicious supper, after which dancing was resumed and kept up until four o'clock.

Some of the handsomest gowns of the season graced this ball, those of the matrons being especially noticeable for richness of material and beauty of line. Mrs. Thomas, who is a pretty blonde, received in a lovely gown of apricot satin, which was made in Paris for this ball. A collar of pearls and diamonds completed the costume. Mrs. Latham McNear (Mollie Thomas) wore a apricot marquise over white lace, which was in turn hung over apricot satin. The tulle was trimmed with a band of rich brown fur. Mrs. Kimble, another daughter of the house, wore a handsome imported gown of a combination of lingerie, rich Irish lace and handsome brocade, which was very becoming to her style. The debutante wore a simple gown of white muslin shirred several times in the skirt and caught with clusters of white satin rose buds. A large corsage bouquet of lavender orchids and lilies of the valley and a crystal band in her blonde hair completed the pretty costume.

Nearly all of the debutantes of the season were present and among them all none was more charmingly gowned or more popular than Miss Ernestine McNear, who wore a particularly Frenchy combination, the foundation of which was pale pink satin made with a slight train. Over this was draped blue chiffon of an odd smoky shade, with gold lace at the de plastrage. Wide velvet ribbon of a rich cerise shade held the tunic in place and a bunch of lavender and pink satin sweet peas completed the charming color scheme. A wide band of gold in the hair arrangement much as the pretty debutante wore it last Saturday on the occasion of her brilliant debut at the Claremont Club added a finishing touch to a lovely costume.

Miss Harriet Stone looked well in corn-colored satin trimmed with white fur. Miss Dora Winn wore a pink satin gown. Miss Florence Hopkins wore white lace and pale blue and was a dinner hostess before the ball. Miss Goss wore white and silver. Mrs. Folia wore a pale yellow satin gown. Mrs. Hall McAllister wore white lace. Miss Cora Smith of Berkeley wore white and pink. Mrs. Will Sherwood looked especially well in creamy white satin embroidered in dull gold. Miss Dorothy Chapman wore pink with a pink band in her reddish hair. Miss Rhoda Pickering wore white satin made Empire style and edged with tiny satin rosebuds.

Miss Agnes Tillman wore pink over white. The Misses Florence and Muriel Williams wore white gowns. Miss Evelyn Barron wore white. Mrs. Louis F. Montague wore a handsome gown of black spangles shading at the bottom of the skirt into deep purple and made over a black foundation. A string of diamonds completed the costume. Mrs. George A. Moore wore white and green brocaded satin with duchesse lace. Miss Leslie Page was very attractive in blue. Miss Dorothy Baker wore white.

Supper was served at tables setting from fourteen to sixteen and the tables were prettily decorated with French gilt baskets filled with poinsettias, holly berries and the polished dark leaves of the Oregon grape.

OTHER DANCES OF THE WEEK.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlyn Stow gave a house dance this week in their home in Broadway, in honor of their son, Ashfield, who is at home from Harvard for the first time in two years. The dance was for the young set.

Hypnotized Woman Says Robbed By Fortune-Telling Gypsy

ST. LOUIS.—That an unidentified fortune teller had kept her in a hypnotic trance three days during which he stole was robbed of a large part of her possessions, was the remarkable statement made to the police Thursday by Mrs. Mary Leinkuehler, 1296 Hohmann Avenue. She says she awakened from the trance Thursday.

She said that last Monday morning the woman entered her store and asked to tell her fortune. She refused, she says, but the woman remained.

After staying a while, Mrs. Leinkuehler says, the fortune teller asked her how business was. "Very bad," she remarked. "Then why don't you let me improve it for you?" the fortune teller retorted. "Let me have your hand" she is supposed to have said to Mrs. Leinkuehler. She says that at that point some unknown power took hold of her and she was under complete control of the fortune teller.

"Give me your hand," she said again. "If not, calamity will visit you."

"I was powerless, and I gave her my hand. I felt that I was weakening and was unable to control myself. She had complete power over me." After holding her hand Mrs. Leinkuehler claims, she commanded her to give up all the money she had.

EYES KEPT ON HER.

She obeyed and handed her over $18. The woman kept her dark eyes nailed on her, and she was like wax in her hand. After placing the money in her purse, the fortune teller ordered three yards of flannel, three dressing sashes, a black purse, two boxes of talcum powder, three spools of yarn and three needles.

After having packed all these things, she made a few motions with her hands, and glancing at her intently, she said:

"Keep all of this secret. Do not let this get out, or calamity's sure to visit you. If you will live up to my orders I will be back Friday, Dec. 16, and bring with me my 'evil powders,' and that will improve your business."

"Keep it all to yourself. Do not let anyone know of it or you are doomed to death. If you will listen to me, business is sure to pick up."

UNABLE TO MOVE.

Mrs. Leinkuehler claims that the hypnotic influence over her was so great that she was unable to move for some time after the woman departed. She said it was only Thursday afternoon that she came to herself and realized what had happened.

As soon as she collected her thoughts she reported to the police.

The elusive woman was about 25 years old, with dark hair and dark, piercing eyes, and weighed about 130 pounds.

She was clad in a brown coat and a blue shawl.

According to the neighbors the fortune teller went about in many stores, but did not cast the same spell on others.

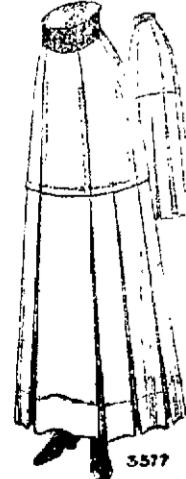

Took Her Riding in 'Dead' Wagon

PHILADELPHIA.—Before a lancy commission at McCall's, a young woman testified that Dr. John C. Bullitt asked her to present him to an attractive blonde and that he later frequently hired the local undertaker's wagon in which to take the blonde driving.

Other idiosyncrasies of Dr. Bullitt, according to witnesses, were that his bulldog shared his master's bed, and Mary his favorite cow, rummaged in a card and lump sugar led to her being the assassin, hand of her master. On his kitchen prepared potatoes for planting, and when he recovered health sufficiently to leave the house Dr. Bullitt had cut the garden in alternate rows of tomatoes and car nations.

The action was brought some time ago by relatives of the physician, who object to his contemplated matrimonial plans. The doctor Bullitt was many times millionaire, built the first skyscraper here and was the author of a famous charter that placed the city government.

Work! Work! Work! Advises Mme. Bernhardt

SARAH BERNHARDT as Marguerite Gautier as seen by Boardman Robinson in New York Tribune.

NEW YORK.—Bernhardt—who has long since attained the enviable privilege of standing merely under the surname—has been taken for granted for so many years as the supreme actress, almost as the symbol of art on the stage, but perhaps it hardly occurs to us to say more than the body can control the mind.

"With fads of beauty culture and all that sort of thing I have little sympathy. I still feel myself young. When it pleased God to bring me to that point where I no longer feel young, I shall accept my fate with a courage as strong as that with which I met the many reverses which befell me at the outset of my career."

"I have one ample principle of diet which I have followed all my life, and which I strongly recommend to everyone else. Eat what you like and when you like. It has served me well."

"Worry, the fretting over trifles, I have never indulged in. The worries that present themselves to us in the form of great entertraints can be avoided by none of us, but the petty worries of life count the thousand victims to one who is destroyed by the news of some really tragic event."

"I simply have never had time to grow old in the sixty-seven years of my life," exclaims the actress when some one remarks upon her vitality. "As a child I was extremely delicate, and every one predicted cheerfully that I would die young. I am now among us to witness the wonder of the way she has lived her whole life."

This is the advice she gave to the world recently:

"To a boy who would keep young, who would look young, and what is a great deal more important, would feel young when he has reached sixty-seven, I give one great commandment: Hold an interest in life, in living, keeping that interest

Alma L. Schmidt Takes Remains of Family With Her Because She Is Lonely.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—After living forty-nine years in America, Alma L. Schmidt of Terra Haute, Ind., is journeying home to Germany, on the liner Rhein. And her days in the fatherland, in deserting the country which had been so long her home, Alma Schmidt took with her the remains of all her relatives who have died in this country. Thus she did because she didn't want to be separated from them in death.

On board the liner with her placed in a large casket are the bodies of her father, mother, brother and sister, which will be buried in a plot close to the old home in Germany.

Miss Schmidt's father was Carl P. Schmidt, who went to Terra Haute as a pioneer and accumulated wealth in real estate. After his death and the death of all her other relatives on this side, Miss Schmidt became lonely and decided to return to her native land.

Mother Drinks Poison

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—"Tell me how easy it is to take," said Mrs. Joseph Knecht, 40, to her daughter, Susie, 11 years old, and lifted a bottle to her lips in front. Susie had objected to taking a teaspoonful of what was supposed to be enough medicine, which her mother poured out of one of a number of bottles.

Mrs. Knecht fell to the floor in convulsions and died before a physician arrived. She drank from a bottle of cold water by mistake.

Susie was almost distracted over the thought that her obstinate contributed to her mother's death.

Got Wrong License

SAN JOSE, Dec. 24.—"Tell me how easy it is to take," said Mrs. Josephine Knowlton, aged 26, a Morgan Hill anchor, came to San Jose for a marriage license and was given a Juan de Leon license by Deputy County Clerk Leo Hicks. Today Knowlton returned to Morgan Hill to break the news to the sheriff that she had obtained a license, which she had taken from the office of the intended wife, wife of a man from Sioux City, Iowa. A week ago, that she was on her way. Nothing has been heard of her since.

Mrs. Sage's Gift

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Every subscriber to the Evening Journal in the employ of the New York city park department will receive, it is announced, as he finishes his day's work a bright new $5 gold piece as a Christmas gift from Mrs. Russell Sage. This gift has been a regular custom with Mrs. Sage for several years. This year she appropriated $1660 for the purpose.

Killed While Coasting

PITTSBURG, Dec. 24.—Mrs. Louis Patterson was so seriously injured that she died and her husband, Louis Patterson, was badly hurt when she and others who were coasting down Jenny Lind street in McKeesport, swerved into the curb.

Children Burned

PITTSBURG, Dec. 24.—While Mrs. Watson was shopping for Christmas for two children, one aged 2½ years and another 6, whom she had located in a room on the lower floor, she slipped. A neighbor, running into the house, told to the little ones out of the bed where they had sought refuge. The children was already dead and the wife expired within a few minutes.

Two Claim Estate

STOCKTON, Dec. 24.—Probably one of the most peculiar will contests ever brought to the attention of a court is being heard by Judge J. Muller of the Superior Court. Mrs. Lavenia Grigsby and her daughter, Mrs. Undine Hogan, are on one side and Mrs. Sarah McDermott and her ten-year-old daughter, Genevieve, who the mother claims was acknowledged by Grigsby as his child, are on the other.

Mrs. Grigsby admits her husband left fourteen years ago while they were living in San Francisco, when another woman appeared on the scene and won the affections of her husband. The alleged widow says Grigsby was threatened by a woman he was living with and thus he left his estate to her.

Thus the girl who had been left to care for the children is contesting the estate.

TO SPEND CHRISTMAS HERE.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. Sturtevant of Burlingame are planning to spend Christmas in San Francisco with the latter's mother, Mrs. R. E. Hayemeyer, at her home on Vernon Heights. Other guests will also be entertained at the Hayemeyer home.

DANCE IN TRUFAVE.

Miss Florence McKnight has asked half a hundred of the younger set on Wednesday evening of next week for a dance.

THE BOWLES TO ENTERTAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip E. Bowles will entertain relatives over Christmas at "The Pines" at a fancy dinner.

Mr. Bowles and Miss Any Bowles have issued cards for a dance to be given Wednesday evening, January 4, when many of the exclusive set will attend.

CARDS AND MUSIC.

Mrs. P. S. Walborn of 1451 Fifth avenue, gave a Christmas party this evening to her friends and an informal audience, who were the evening's diversion.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. George C. Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. W. McFadden, Miss Katharine Folger, Miss Ruth Walborn, Miss Helen Waldron and Estelle Walborn.

MRS. SCHLOSS HOSTESS.

Mrs. A. Schloss will be hostess at a dance on next Thursday evening, when she will entertain in honor of her son, Oscar Schloss, at the family home in Berkeley.

VISITING HERE.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Loben Sels are coming from their home in Sacramento to spend the holidays with the latter's parents, Professor and Mrs. Frederick Sels, in Berkeley. During

"Insult!" Trills Nordica; "Puccini Piece Our's!"

NEW YORK.—Mme. Nordica was asked why she wasn't singing at the Metropolitan opera-house this year. Mme. Nordica was the first American singer to "create" Wagner's heroines at the Metropolitan opera-house, and she is a real American, born in Maine in 1856.

"Why am I not invited to sing at the Metropolitan?" she repeated. "That is another question that I cannot answer. I have heard it said that my terms were prohibitive, but I scarcely think that can be true in view of the fact that they are the same Maurice Grau always paid me and that I receive in Boston. So I think there must be some other reason."

"It has filtered to my ears from the directorate that I would be invited to sing at the Metropolitan opera-house this year once if I would consent to make that performance a farewell. You may imagine that I would accept no such engagement from Mr. Gatti-Casazza, and he is a real American, born in Maine in 1856.

"I don't belong to the Metropolitan opera company any longer, however," she went on to say, "and I feel that whatever Mr. Gatti-Casazza may have done to me is really very slight in comparison with the insult put on the American artists of the company when Signor Puccini

CALLS IT INCREDIBLE.

"It is incredible that the artists of our own country should have been treated as they were at the first performance of an American opera in that house. Don't tell me that Geraldine Farrar and Ricardo Martin wouldn't have been splendid in the work, and that there were no other Americans capable of taking part in it."

"I have been in the West myself, and I know what the life of the miners there is. That is the reason I know how good the Americans would be in the opera and how true to the spirit of this country the music is."

"But there has been no detail of the surrender of the Metropolitan to the Italians so discreditable to the powers that are in control there as the insult put on the American singers in the company by refusing to allow them any share in the production of the first opera ever written that pretended to be based on modern American life."

Grows Corn From Seed Discovered in 1000-Year Mummy.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind.—In the third annual show of the Clark County Corn Growers' Association, here, no exhibit attracted more attention among the farmers and other than an ear of corn sent by Mrs. Sallie Marshall Hardy. It was grown from seed taken from an Egyptian mummy.

The mummy was placed in a tomb 1000 years ago and the corn was placed with it. The corn raised from the seed resembles ordinary sweet corn, and the ear is about five inches long, a few grains of yellow and white corn mingling with the more numerous grains of sweet corn, due, it is said, to being grown among other varieties. This is astonishing, as maize of Indian corn has always been supposed to have been first found in this country.

Mrs. Hardy is a descendant of Chief Justice John Marshall, and is a woman of education and culture. She collects antiquities. Where she got her mummy, only 1000 years old is puzzling the Egyptologists, who cannot find any of recent date.

Pigs Is Pigs, but Court Wouldn't Stand for Them

NEW YORK.—On the charge that she kept pigs in her house, Mrs. Anna Draka divided her house on Rocky Hill Road equally with the pigs by means of a partition. Her rules were not too strict, even at that, for when Saturday Officer Noonan went there yesterday morning he found a fat porker stretched out asleep in front of the stove on Mrs. Draka's side of the partition.

Seven pigs less pampered occupied their proper quarters. Chickens roamed at will on both sides of the partition. When he will remove her live stock, he will set the police hunting for Draka, who, it is thought, is in one of the neighboring towns.

Magistrate Connolly admired the woman's pluck in starting a business in this way, but ruled that a dwelling was not a proper place for either pigs or chickens. He gave her until December 27 to remove her live stock. Meanwhile he will set the police hunting for Draka, who, it is thought, is in one of the neighboring towns.

He gave her until December 27 to remove her live stock. Meanwhile he will set the police hunting for Draka, who, it is thought, is in one of the neighboring towns.

Mrs. Draka told Officer Noonan she had worked up a steady trade with farmers in the neighborhood, so we were glad to hear any moment, the brave little woman had some quick thinking. She remembered that bears can run fast down a steep hill, and knowing that her pigs were here for many years.

Alone, blackberrying on Sprucewood mountain, Mrs. Adams, a frail, but courageous woman of 30 years, ran across Bruin. She had nearly filled her pail with berries when she heard an angry growl and looking up saw a huge black bear standing on a ledge less than twenty feet away.

Mrs. Adams stood her ground. Bruin snarled at her, but Mrs. Adams had a good start, and because of its lumbering gait the bear could not overtake her. Just in the neck of time, Mrs. Adams came to the tree where she had left her rifle, and taking steady aim sent a bullet into the oncoming bear.

MISSING ELOPERS SEND NO MESSAGE

Mrs. Philip Hitchborn and Horace Wylie Still Hidden.

WASHINGTON Dec 24—No word has been received from either Mrs. Philip S. Hitchborn or Horace Wylie since they left this city last Friday. Equally now is it that neither the friends nor the families of either of the principals in the elopement that has stirred off and social circles here have any information as to whereabout the two are.

In the hope that the elopers might be located and recomplications effected in search has been made far and wide. Meanwhile effort has been made to get over Mrs. Hitchborn's disappearance by alternate statements that she was ill in a sanitarium and that she was with her husband in Atlantic City. Wylie's relatives have persistently said that he was in New York during the time his wife was away at Mrs. Hitchborn's. At the same time they have confessed an inability to locate the missing man definitely or to say when he might return.

Samuel F. Swartz, Hitchborn's law partner yesterday resolved his statement that Mrs. Hitchborn was in Atlantic City with her husband. This statement Mr. Swartz made on the authority of Hitchborn with whom he declared he had talked over the long distance telephone.

Hitchborn, then was asked as to what all the family were well but today Swartz said that he had received a letter from Hitchborn saying that Mrs. Hitchborn was still in a private sanitarium and was getting along very well. Captain Hopkins brother of Mrs. Wylie declined to discuss the whereabouts of Wylie or to venture any prediction as to when he might be expected to return to Washington. The Hitchborns and the Hoyts continue to be absent from the city.

THREATS TO SUE COOK BRING FORTH LAUGH

NEW YORK Dec 24—It was suggested to Dr. Cook yesterday that some susceptible persons had paid him money to hear his lectures and he discovered the north pole were thinking of suing him to get their dollars back on the ground of "fee pretenses." That struck the popular navigator as funny.

"I'd like to know how they can do it," he remarked, joyously, "they paid me to hear me lecture, didn't they? Well then, they heard me lecture, and it's the end of the month, maintaining them when I discovered the pole. I thought had I not seen right now that I did not."

Dr. Cook sat in the Waldorf cafe for two hours yesterday telling rapturously to friends and nodding to the salutes of inquisitive ones who wanted to look at him.

He was self-contained and suave.

TRAIN DISPATCHERS SEEK BIG INCREASE

SPOKANE Wash. Dec 24—Spokane train dispatchers 28 in number are preparing to petition all railroads operating here to increase their wage to $125 per month effective January. The wages at present range from $80 to $40.

They stated this is part of a great railroad movement backed by similar petitions in other parts of the country. He urged being granted a raise which would be $100 a month the railroads would be $150 next of the month. The increase in the present wage of $100 a month is due to the fact that the railroads association at all times has been up to the present in a keen no action on wage dispute.

DYING NECESSARY

MILWAUKEE Dec 24—The increased cost of living has become so great that dying soon will become the most necessary and so it is planned to start a mutual cemetery. This is to be organized about the city and the encampments of the post office department which up to the present has been no action on wage dispute.

ABANDON CELEBRATION BECAUSE OF EPIDEMIC

PEPPERSON CITY Mo. Dec 24—For the first time in twenty five years there will be no Christmas tree at the executive mansion this year for the pleasure of the little children of Jefferson City. An epidemic of scarlet fever prevails in the city and the physicians have requested Governor and Mrs. Hadley to abandon the annual Christmas tree. The congegration of so many children should tend to spread the disease. The Governor however thought that the children shall have a treat Easter.

Last year an epidemic of measles was raging in the city during the holidays. The Christmas tree at the mansion that year drew a great crowd of children. As a result the three Hadley children fell ill with measles.

SANTA CLAUS AND GOOD ADVICE ARE BOY'S THEMES

Charles Hall Birnbaum, Four Years Old, on Road to Success.

Charles Hall Birnbaum, the 4 year old nephew of Charles C. Hall, former manager of the Mardonough theater, is the latest addition to the poets colony of the city. He is the youngest poet in the city and a boy of unusual promise who has written in juvenile magazines and devoted to the interests of children. It is predicted that he will some day be a place in the hall of fame in literature. Books containing the poems of the young author will be published.

The following are among the recent productions from the pen of the child prodigy:

TRIPOLI EXPEDITION TO HEAD OFF U. S.

ROME Dec 24—In spite of the denial from official quarters certain newspapers continue to assert that a naval expedition to Tripoli is being prepared with the purpose of preventing the subversive mine there falling into the hands of Americans. The report is denied that the American archaeological expedition to Tripoli is aimed to ascertain the extent of the country's production in order to release the United States from the necessity of importing Sicilian sulphur.

Captain Hopkins brother of Mrs. Wylie declined to discuss the whole affair of Wylie or to venture any prediction as to when he might be expected to return to Washington. The Hitchborns and the Hoyts continue to be absent from the city.

SOLDIER CONQUERS THREE ELEMENTS

Lieut. Theodore Ellison Soon Able to Navigate in Air, on Earth, Under Water.

WASHINGTON Dec 24—Unless he first breaks his neck Lieutenant Theodore G. Ellison soon will be in a position high to claim to be the first naval officer who is equally at home in each of the three elements earth air and water.

Acting Secretary Winthrop has as signed the young officer to a course of training in the management of aerial and land aircraft the instruction of Glenn H. Curtiss at the training park or Los Angeles Cal.

Lieutenant has already mastered the submarines and can navigate the underwater craft like a fish. Of course he is an expert pilot aviator as a result of the physical training orders and now he is to be promoted to full rank.

It is noted that his familiarity with the use of gasoline engines in submarines will prove to be of value in handling the motors of the aeroplanes.

At a final conference in the office of R. B. Miller traffic manager of the entire system final details of transfer were arranged that the change will not be too costly.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS TO CONTEST FOR TROPHY

Garfield to Meet Bushrod Park Monday; Activities at Playgrounds.

Activities in Bushrod Park playgrounds will be centered in the athletic field Monday afternoon when the senior team of the Garfield school and the seniors of the Bushrod Park team will play football at 1 o'clock. It will be one of the most exciting events ever held on the grounds and several hundred football fans representing the schools of the two cities will be in attendance. The game in the boys' department of Bushrod playground will practically cease during the afternoon. The boys will play the game for the Morton trophy.

At the close of the game many of the boys of both teams will witness the football game between the Century and the Valley teams which will be held on the State League grounds. Sixtieth and Grove streets.

Folk dancing will be the attraction in the girls' department of Bushrod Park Monday afternoon.

In Fremont Park playground the regular games in both the boys' and girls' departments will be enjoyed. There will be no contests between rival teams on Monday.

The outdoor gymnasium for the girls' department of Fremont Park is now open, October 30 and this supply was found ample to bring the vessel to her berth in the Seattle harbor. The vessel brought a cargo of 600 tons of coal from the Atlantic coast.

Coming down the Atlantic coast the Honolulu made a straight course for the Straits of Magellan. At Sardine point in the straits the vessel paused two hours while cables were sent ashore. Then the engines turned over and continued without pause until they were running off at piers 14 astern.

Once out of the straits the Honolulu ran far enough westward to lay a straight course for Cape Flattery.

Brand new and representing an investment of more than $800,000, the Honolulu will be turned over for a time to a rival steamship from the Watson Navigation Company. The charter has been made rather than have the liner idle at a time when she is not needed.

This morning after discharging her coal the Honolulu will proceed to San Francisco and enter the Honolulu freight and passenger trade.

The Honolulu was built this year at Port Sparrow, Maryland. The vessel is 425 feet long 68 feet beam and can carry 10,000 tons of cargo. She has a mean draft of 26 feet.

RIVAL BOXERS EXUDE MUCH CONFIDENCE

Both Managers Flirting With Promoters and Match Is in Air

By EDDIE SMITH.

"I don't think Hogan will ever meet Frankie," said Jack Perkins yesterday when taking over the proposed match between "One Round" Hogan and Frank Burns. "I think Burns has his goat. I have seen all the opinion from the time the boys met in their four-round scrap and as time goes on I become more deeply impressed with that idea."

You will remember that Hogan had the best of the first two rounds but that Burns was coming like a house on fire during the last three minutes. Well, I am of the opinion that that finish made by Burns took all the sap out of Hogan and until such time as he covers our $1000 side bet I will feel that he will crawl out of the match."

SAYS BURNS IS AFRAID.

"I really feel that Burns is afraid of my man," said Walter Frayne last evening at the amateur scraps held at the Dreamland pavilion last evening. "Of course Burns and his manager are very game now and are doing a lot of talk but it is a long way off from the day of meeting."

Burns is brave enough now just as many other boxers have been prior to a match but when he steps into the ring with Hogan he will remember the beating Jack gave him in the four-round game and the boasted bravery will leave him. Burns can't forget that punch Hogan has and you can take it from me that Hogan will have an easy time of it. Burns and we will not only gather the long end of the purse money but the side bet must go and we will take that too."

FUNNY SITUATION.

Here is a funny situation, managers of rival boxers get out a statement each claiming the other is afraid. It is no uncommon thing to listen to managers tell of the prowess of the men they have in charge and how sure they are that he will be able to win from the man he is about to be matched with. Fact is, that is the regular thing.

It is somewhat strange, however, to happen to bump into rival managers within a few hours of each other and have both give out a statement that not only lends favor to the claims of confidence but also shows that both men really do feel that the other fellow is somewhat afraid.

GRIFFIN GETTING BUSY.

Jim Griffin will get busy immediately after Christmas with the bid for the match. Griffin will be 50 per cent of the bid received. Jim wants to be assured of the January permit before making arrangements for the contest as he has no desire to "shoot a bloomer" with the article. As soon as this is settled, however, he will busy himself trying to get the rival managers to sign articles.

Jack Perkins has already posted his $1000 with Tom Corbett and is awaiting the pleasure of Manager Frayne. Walter insists that he will not accept the bid however, unless the man he is facing who is to be the promoter and what terms are to be offered for the match.

There is just a slight possibility that the manager of Hogan may make a demand for a bonus for his man and if this is done the match will hang fire for some little time. Griffin has said that he will give a straight percentage to the promoter and to either man. It is hoped for the good of the match and life it will inject into the game that Frayne will not ask this reward for his man and if he looks at the match in the right light he will not do so.

KING GEORGE V TO SPORT SILK AS DID FATHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—American turfmen will be interested to know that King George of England intends to follow the example of his father by active participation in racing.

After the death of King Edward, those of His Majesty's horses which were in training were run in the name of Lord Derby, but this arrangement will not be continued next summer, and the royal races will be entered in the king's name and will be run in his majesty's colors.

The latest issue of the English Racing Calendar, the official journal of the Jockey Club, contains details of the entries for next season's meetings that have been already entered into on behalf of the king.

The engagements relate to the New Market, Second October, Bath, Bury Club, Doncaster Spring, Gatwick October, Hurst Park, Whitby, Newbury Summer and Sandown Park first summer meeting.

His majesty also subscribed to several important weight-for-age races to be decided in 1912 and 1913.

FASCHAUER IS WINNER AT BILLIARDS

Wins Match Over McPherson and Gets Into Running of Tourney

Faschauer won his game from McPherson last night in the three-cushion tourney at the Oakland billiard parlor. Faschauer was popular with himself as a consequence of his skill, for Charlie had drawn circles in all of his previous contests, and was destined of winning at least one game.

It was a hard blow to McPherson, though, for he had been running along very smoothly and had a high percentage of wins, but the diminution for losing one of the prizes as is shown by a glance at the standing of the players.

Three 'I League Winner Gets Cup

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—There will be no day racing at the Springfield. Three days park this season, despite the fact that the Springfield team captured the pennant last season.

If there is any kind of a lifting it will be a cup lifting, for the Springfield magnate will find a large loving cup in his stocking tomorrow.

President Tierney will begin to fight shy of the time-honored precedent this year and award something more substantial than a piece of bunting as a reward for the title winners. The loving cup is 12 inches in height, made of Sterling silver with a gold-washed base and mounted on an 8-inch base of ebony.

As Dreamland Pavilion the two Oakland boys, Freddie Couture and Harry Schulek fought out fair battles. The former was an exceptionally good one in which Baker did the cleverer work, but Couture evened up with his aggressiveness. Freddie has insisted right along that he would make things hot for the clever little Hebrew when they met in the ring and he certainly did it to his best. From the very start of the bout he carried the swelling of Baker and never once did he stop long enough to give the other fellow a chance to steady himself.

Later landed the cleaner blows and in a measure outpolished his heavier opponent, but the little Frenchman was not to be denied and referee Hanson gave him equal share in a draw decision. If the decision was to be given on points Baker won, but he landed cleaner and better, but Couture set such a pace that his aggressiveness could not very well have been overlooked.

In the main event of the evening Walter Schulek and Joe Lannan met and the veteran was awarded the decision, which he won through the fact that Schulek was afraid of him from the start. Walter acted like a scared deer and Lannan won because he persisted in doing all the rushing and landed an equal number of the solid wallopas. The remainder of the bouts ended as follows:

The best bout of the evening was furnished by Harry Karp and Kid Palmer. The judges decided to call the affair a draw after four sessions of clever work on the part of both fighters. William Hartell knocked out Billy Crowley in one round, Sailor Sharkey won a decision over George Thomas in four rounds, Barney Forbes knocked out Joe Kane in one round and Joe Livermore fought Sid Lupiney to a draw in four rounds.

NEGLECT MORE DANGEROUS THAN DISEASE

In my very extensive practice I have learned that the VENereal, Skin and Nervous diseases are due mainly to NEGLECT AND DELAY. Again, I say, now that many men suffer for years and practically RISK THEIR LIVES trying to do themselves with some patent nostrum, and then come to see me. And further, it is evident that many men will run away from their doctor with postpone it. If you are, it is certain that you will regret it. It is NEVER too late to seek medical treatment. NO TREATMENT AT ALL is worse than a "cheap" treatment at DR. PALMER'S office.

The last state of the man is worse than the first. The announcement stop and say the man is to whether YOU are following in the foolish steps of the man who NEGLECTS his health. Are you? Are you? Are you?

Call me. I am your doctor.

'WOOD RUINED MY LIFE!' DECLares MRS. TURNBULL

Woman Denounces Detective in Court; Baldwin Will Contest Goes Over Until After First of Year

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—Mrs. Lillian Ashley Turnbull, who seeks a portion of the Baldwin millions for her daughter, whom she claims to have been a child of the tuffman, had her first day of rest in a week today. Court adjourned last evening until January 4, the grueling cross-examination of Mrs. Turnbull by attorneys for the defense being concluded.

The woman left the stand seemingly unperturbed by the constant fire of cross-questions propounded by some of the cleverest attorneys of the West.

There was little new testimony introduced yesterday. Nineteen letters and envelopes were shown the witness, but each of these she branded as a forgery, and each time she took occasion to denounce James R. Wood, the detective.

"James R. Wood has ruined my life for years," she said when questioned in regard to some transaction in which Wood was alleged to have taken part.

SENT MONEY BACK, SHE SAYS.

"He may have given me the $400 which was supposed to have been sent me by Colonel Pope and which I was told to use on a trip to Australia. But I immediately sent it back."

"How did you send it back?" asked McNab.

"I don't remember," said the witness. "The questions were gone over for the third time. Then Attorney Grant objected and Garrett McNaibury rose to explain that the witness herself had introduced the subject of returning the money and it was then her duty to find out all about it."

Mrs. Turnbull was asked if Baldwin had ever promised to marry her and if she had not testified to her suit against him in San Francisco that he had not done so.

"I do not remember ever having been asked that question," said Mrs. Turnbull, "but if I had, I would have answered 'No' for Mr. Baldwin did not take time to make any promises, he just married me there and there, just as quick as he could get that contract drawn up and signed."

"I suppose you were just as quick about signing your name to it," queried McNab.

FORGETS SHOOTING EVIDENCE.

The trial of her sister, Emma Ashby, for the attempt to murder E. J. Baldwin was made the subject of inquiry by the defense. Mrs. Turnbull declared that she could remember nothing of the evidence she had given at the trial. The only thing that was distinct in her mind was her sister's quick release by the jury.

She was asked if her story of her shooting and her sister had not caused the shooting.

"No, sir," was the reply. "It was the famous stories that were being circulated about us. Baldwin's money could do almost anything against a defenseless woman. I was beside myself with grief at the act and the attendant consequences."

A printed copy of what is alleged to be a copy of Judge Slack's opinion, but which was not admitted to evidence, it being objected to by Attorney Grant, who demanded that it be produced, a copy of the original, was given to Mrs. Turnbull in order, it was claimed, to refresh her memory when questioned by McNab.

LEGISLATIVE DELEGATION TELLS NEEDS OF COUNTY

Additional Judge Necessary to Take Care of Juvenile Court and Overflow Business; Official Affairs in Good Condition

That the affairs of Alameda county might receive proper attention when the state legislature convenes next month, a meeting of the legislative delegation was held last night in the office of Senator John W. Stetson in the Oakland Bank of Savings, nine of the members being present. Members of the board of supervisors were not on hand but Director Dunning and Deputy Clark appeared with a request for the appointment of another deputy in the district attorney's office, also that the wages be increased for those at present employed.

It was pointed out that an amount of the juvenile court and the vast amount of work required of the six judges who at present occupy seats on the superior bench, an additional judge was quite necessary and that under an amendment to the constitution it would hereafter be possible to have continuously a judge from another county seated upon the bench to try cases which originate in this county.

MATTER LAID OVER.

The matter was laid over until the next meeting which will be held next Friday night at the same place. It will be the last meeting held before the legislators go to Sacramento to attend the session of the legislature.

The meeting of last night was called for the purpose of considering matters affecting the county in general and particularly to investigate whether or not there could be some saving made in the expense of running the county government.

Due consideration was made of the various plans presented and final decision was laid over until the final meeting of the committee, or until the representatives should arrive in Sacramento.

"We have practically finished our investigation," said Senator Stetson. "We simply wanted to find out if any improvement could be made in conducting the county's business."

The investigation disclosed that at present there was a lag in front particular we desired to lower the tax rates, to stop up possible leaks, keep the machinery oiled and ship ahead."

At the meeting next Friday night the tunnel project will probably be discussed. It is proposed to construct a tunnel beneath the estuary between this city and Alameda. It is the desire of the legislature to adopt some legislation some action be taken by the lawmaking body which will facilitate its construction by permitting the Board of Supervisors to loan its assistance in the way of preliminary work, such as soundings in the estuary and the examination of the geological formation underlying.

KIPLING PRATES CHANGE OF NAME

Writes to Medicine Hat, appealing to City to Retain Title.

In regard to her testimony at the San Francisco trial.

NOT ENGAGED AT FOURTEEN.

The questions and answers disclosed that Mrs. Turnbull was born November 11, 1888. She was raised on a stock farm in Vermont. In 1884 her father died, and when she was sixteen years old she taught school.

She was then asked if when she was between the ages of 16 and 14 she was engaged to be married, and if that had not been her testimony at the time of the former trial.

"Judge Slack misinterpreted my testimony," said Mrs. Turnbull. "I stated that my father and mother wanted me to marry the young man who afterward died, but the engagement never took place. They all wanted it, but I never consented."

Then her acquaintance with John Osborne was brought up. "She was asked if she had not married without the formality of an induction and if she had not gone to the theater and dinner with him on several occasions."

"That may have been Mr. Osborne's testimony at the trial," she said, "but it wasn't true, and Judge Slack himself says that his word wasn't worthy of belief."

"Judge Slack also said," retorted McEnery, "that he decided the case on your testimony and letters."

"Do you remember a picture that was introduced of Mr. Osborne and yourself?" she was asked.

PICTURE CAUSED SHOOTING.

"I remember a picture very well, but I was not the woman in it. I remember it particularly for it was this that almost cost Mr. Baldwin his life, for this was introduced at the moment my sister fired the shot at him."

Once again her relations with Colonel Pope were dwelt upon, and once again Mrs. Turnbull denied all the allegations and declared though she had received money from the man, she had never used it for her own benefit.

Mrs. Turnbull stated that her mind was a blank in regard to any release of Colonel Pope, which she was asked if she had signed.

James R. Wood, according to Mrs. Turnbull, claimed that he had been employed to look up her past when she first met him and he had done so and found her a good woman. "I never knew who employed him," she continued; "perhaps he can enlighten you."

"Did you kiss Mr. Baldwin when he came East to see you?"

"No, Mr. McNab, was the quick retort, and I think if you refer to one of the letters in Judge Slack's opinion, you will see from that that I did not."

GOING FOR HUGS AND KISSES.

The letter was read and in it Baldwin stated that he was coming East for the hugs and kisses she had promised, but he feared she would be as shy as on the occasion of his other visit in the East.

The question as to whether Mr. Baldwin had written her in the East prior to their first meeting and offered to pay her bill was introduced.

"No, sir," was the reply. "It was the famous stories that were being circulated about us. Baldwin's money could do almost anything against a defenseless woman. I was beside myself with grief at the act and the attendant consequences."

A printed copy of what is alleged to be a copy of Judge Slack's opinion, but which was not admitted to evidence, it being objected to by Attorney Grant, who demanded that it be produced, a copy of the original, was given to Mrs. Turnbull in order, it was claimed, to refresh her memory when questioned by McNab.

OAKLAND GIRL TO WED SACRAMENTAN

Miss Von Benzon to Become Bride of Gas Company Manager.

Tomorrow in Sacramento Miss Juliette Von Benzon, a well known Oakland girl, will become the bride of Henry C. Keyes, manager of the National Gas company of the capital city.

The ceremony will take place in San Francisco at the home of the bride's mother in Presidio Terrace, and will be attended only by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

Mr. Keyes is one of Sacramento's most popular citizens, and the secret of his marriage was kept until a few days ago. Since the announcement Mr. Keyes has been the recipient of several affairs in honor of the coming event.

Miss Juliette Von Benzon has hundreds of friends in Oakland and San Francisco.

A pretty home is fast being completed in the fashionable suburbs of Sacramento for Mr. and Mrs. Keyes.

SETS POISON FOR PESTS; ABSORBS IT HIMSELF

CHIYEVENNE, Wyo., Dec. 24.—George Dennis, a laborer, for the last few nights found sleep an impossibility because of the presence in his bed of innumerable little pests not mentioned in police society. Accordingly he sprinkled his bed clothes Thursday night with an insecticide. Last night at a local hospital he was said to be dying from poison absorbed through his pores while he slept.

CAPTAIN KUHLS DEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—Death came suddenly yesterday afternoon to Captain Frederick A. Kuhls, a well known liquor dealer and a prominent member of several local German societies. Kuhls, who was native of Germany and 62 years old, came to San Francisco when a young man. For many years he was a director in the German Society and Loan Association. He is survived by a widow and three children. Kuhls lived at 734 Dell street.

VACANCIES SOON TO OCCUR.

Among the vacancies soon to occur which will be filled by either Governor Gillett or by Governor-elect Hiram Johnson, are two superior judgeships.

One of these is in Marin county and results from the advancement of Thomas J. Lennon from the superior bench to the chief justiceship of the Court of Appeals. There has been some talk of Judge Lennon resigning, but it is understood that he will not do so.

Judge Gillett will appoint a successor to his vacated seat, but it is understood that he will not do so.

Judge Johnson will succeed to the higher place on the bench automatically and the vacancy on the superior bench will also be created automatically at one minute after midnight of the first Monday after the first day of January, 1911, which will fall on January 2. The legislature will meet at noon of that day and the new governor usually is not inaugurated until the next day. Gillett will have the intervening time in which to appoint a successor to Lennon on the superior bench.

The other vacancy on the superior bench will be caused by the election of Judge John E. Baker of Modoc to Congress from the First district. As Baker will not assume his office at the national capital until next March, his successor will be appointed by Governor Johnson.

The filling of judicial vacancies during the interim of the expiration of the outgoing judge's term and the inauguration of a new governor is not an unusual practice, it having been done by George C. Pardee and other governors.

HALE CONFIDENT CITY WILL WIN EXPOSITION

Acting President of Panama-Pacific Fair Company Returns From Washington Sanguine of Victory

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—R. E. Hale, acting president of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company, who is now in Europe, returned from Washington last night, enthusiastically confident that San Francisco will win the big fair in 1915. Hale worked indefatigably with the others of the committee sent from here to boost San Francisco, and stated that when the House committee on rules meets on January 17 to decide upon the site for the exposition he feels that San Francisco's hopes for victory will be fulfilled.

He said last night:

"The action of the committee indicates that the question will be settled at the short session of Congress," said Mr. Hale last night.

"This is a hopeful sign, but more significant is the experience of the members of our committee of having so many members of Congress switch from New Orleans to San Francisco, while few, if any, have reported changing the other way.

"From a strategic standpoint there were two positions we wished clearly defined:

"First, that New Orleans deserved the government to assume the financial responsibility for the success of her position.

"Second, that the city destined to hold the celebration should be named at this short session of Congress.

"Both of these issues are now clearly determined.

"San Francisco has announced her desire to assume full financial responsibility, independent of government aid, while the bond issue in Louisiana precludes the possibility of holding any exposition in New Orleans without the government taking it, thus placing responsibility for the success of the proposed enterprise.

"Both cities have announced their desire for an early settlement, and the rules committee has decided to bring the issue to a vote in the House not later than January 17, at which time both cities will struggle for supremacy.

"The sentiment at that time, however, had already begun to turn, because of the opening of our campaign of education, the most effective part of which was the multitude of letters written by business men asking assistance in securing the vote of congressmen and the distribution of high class descriptive literature which pictorially demonstrated California's resources and attractions and the accomplishment of one cent of the bill.

"The bills will then have to be passed upon by the Senate, which probably means that the final decision will not be rendered much before March 1.

"The New Orleans fight is being waged by experienced publicists and managers who take advantage of every opening and are conducting a most persistent and systematic campaign. No fight is won, particularly if of national interest, until the vote is finally cast."

WONDERFUL TEAM PLAY.

"It was the wonderful team play that counted. We were told on many occasions that never before had such a representative and effective body of men visited the capital on a similar mission—every one earnest, enthusiastic and original.

"Above all, it is the laudable original sweat-and-dust-work of the city, of the city to digest and disperse

the information of the proposed enterprise.

"Both cities have announced their desire for an early settlement, and the rules committee has decided to bring the issue to a vote in the House not later than January 17, at which time both cities will struggle for supremacy.
